Clinical Applications of 3D Imaging for Your Daily Practice

The New Standard of Care
in Implant Dentistry

Dr. David Ahn | Course Speaker

Board certified periodontist and implant
Specialist, Lecturer at UCLA Dental School,
Lecturer at WLA VA Hospital, Faculty at AIC

About this Course

Dental Cone Beam Computed Tomography (CBCT) has become an essential tool for dentists during the past decade in dental diagnosis and treatment planning. However, adequate diagnosis and treatment planning may be compromised due to the inadequate understanding of radiology, machine specifications, machine operations, and software. During the presentation, the speaker will review the basic concepts and clinical applications of CBCT for daily practice.

During this course, our attendees will:

- Understand the basic concept of 3D Cone Beam technology
- Learn anatomical abnormalities
- Learn how to evaluate the specifications of different CBCT machines
- Learn various clinical applications and functions of CBCT machine and imaging software
- Learn about complete digital workflow

About Dr. Ahn

Dr. David Ahn is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin – Madison with a BS in Biochemistry. He worked at the renowned David Watkin's AIDS Vaccine Lab and during his time as a research specialist he was published in multiple manuscripts for the Journal of Virology. After a year in AIDS research, Dr. Ahn attended Tufts University-School of Dental Medicine Boston and graduated in 2013. With his passion for excellence Dr. Ahn completed a 2-year General Practice Residency at Yale – New Haven Hospital as chief resident and was awarded resident of the year. During his training at Yale, having acquired clinical skills and experiencing countless varieties of dental cases, his passion to encompass all aspects of dental health led him to pursue a specialty in periodontics at the VA Greater Los Angeles Healthcare System where he graduated as co-chief resident. Dr. Ahn currently works at multiple private practices as a Periodontist, and he also teaches at UCLA School of Dentistry and the W. Los Angeles VA Hospital.
